Class One's topic this term is Amazing Architecture and the children have been looking at the geography of our locality. They have been using google maps to further their research. The popular Julia Donaldson book 'A Squash and A Squeeze' has been a big hit with Class one this week who have acted out the story in connection with their topic work.

Please join us for the Educating Kids Outdoors
Assembly
Thursday 16th at 9.10

Please remember
PE kits to be in school
every week and to label
children's clothes

Class Three have been considering relative clauses in literature this week—ask them to see what they can tell you!

Maths works has focussed on decimals and they've made a great start researching Greek theatre masks, watch this space for updates on their progress as they have a go at making their own.

We're expecting a visit from GB Paralympic Archer and author Danielle Brown Wed 12th Feb further details to follow Class Two have been investigating a range of books by the author Jeremy Strong. They've also been wrestling with mental maths challenges of doubling and halving, which was more popular with some students than others! There has been lots of singing and action practise for Young Voices next week, and an introduction to this term's Egyptian topic work too.

Ask your child whether they're involved in the Dance Festival!
